Use genuine parts to optimise your fuel consumption

Poor maintenance can lead to fuel wastage of up to 15%.

For example, a poor quality fuel filter could allow water to pass through, causing irreparable damage to the injection system.

Using genuine parts and ensuring careful, professional maintenance is carried out on your machine is essential to ensuring its longevity, whilst maintaining high levels of performance and optimal fuel consumption.

Protect your health and comfort in the cab

You don't count the hours you spend in your cab, which is precisely why protecting your working environment is essential in enabling you to work with peace of mind whilst safeguarding yourself from all particles, even the very finest.

The genuine filters fitted optimise this protection, improving the quality of the air that comes into the cab by filtering out 1.5 times more harmful particles than an adaptable filter.

We recommend that you replace your cab filters every year (or 200 hours/24 months for activated carbon filters).

Do not attempt to clean the filters with water or air, as this will damage the filter media and undermine their efficiency.
